

A decorative initial 'e' in a medieval manuscript. The 'e' is written in a stylized, cursive script with a long horizontal line extending to the right. This line terminates in a large, symmetrical, star-like or floral ornament. The ornament has a central point with four main lobes, each containing a small circle. The lobes are further decorated with smaller circles and lines, creating a complex, geometric pattern. The entire design is drawn in a dark ink on a light-colored, textured parchment background.
